

INCENTIVE SCORECARD SYSTEM

Program Description:

The City of San Antonio offers a variety of incentives to promote targeted development, job creation and community growth in both residential and commercial/industrial projects that meet the priorities and goals set by the City Council. In June 2006, City Council adopted changes to the Incentive Scorecard System (ISS) that identifies certain incentives for projects which achieve a qualifying score during the application process. The evaluation and application is an automated process to determine if a project qualifies for any City incentives. The ISS on-line process is used to facilitate and expedite the award of targeted development incentives. The ISS establishes criteria for administrative approval of incentives for qualifying development projects and serves as an evaluation tool to determine the public benefit of a proposed project. The ISS is easy to use, minimize subjectivity and identifies specific criteria to qualify for incentives. It is intended to establish clear expectations of performance and accountability, while achieving the goals and objectives established by City Council.
